

Camp/Clinic Participation Rules

We want everyone to have a safe and happy camp/clinic experience.

When attending L.A. Double Dutch Club's Double Dutch Camp/Clinic (LADDC), we expect that all participants will demonstrate care, respect, and responsibility at all times while with us. In addition, we expect participants to exhibit self-control, be nice to others, and follow simple instructions. To help students understand what this means, we have 4 basic rules:

1. Be Caring: Being caring means that you will be kind to others, be a good friend, and use ropes and other materials wisely.
2. Respect Others: To show respect you must be kind and polite to others. You should also pay attention to others as well as yourself.
3. Take Responsibility: Taking responsibility means that you do what you are supposed to do, when you are supposed to do it, the way you are supposed to do it, and if you do something wrong you try to make it right.
4. Participate and Try New Things: Participating means you will fully take part in all double dutch activities.

Things that are never okay at LADDC & CAMP/CLINIC: bullying or harassment (saying mean things or hurting others), lying or not telling the truth, stealing or taking things without asking, hitting, shoving, pushing, or being mean, destroying property, possessing, using, or distributing drugs, alcohol, and/or tobacco or bringing weapons of any kind to the program.

Consequences at program: We expect that participants will demonstrate care, respect, and responsibility at all times while with us. We also expect participants to exhibit self-control, be nice to others, and follow simple instructions.

If you do not follow the rules above or have difficulty with any part of these expectations, you will be asked to take responsibility for your actions.

Generally speaking, we will follow this process for any inappropriate behaviors.

1. You will receive immediate correction from the staff member or director, sharing both what you are not doing right and what you can do to make it right.

2. You will receive a verbal warning and logical consequence.
3. You will have a follow up discussion with the master coach.
4. The master coach will communicate with your family and set up a meeting between the family, student, and program director to talk through continued participation in the program.

Removal from the program is a possibility depending on the severity and continuation of the behavior or action.

The master coach may decide to skip some of these steps if necessary.

While we offer top-notch practice and instruction, we may not be the best program or have the right supports in place for all children, especially those requiring special medical, behavioral, or social support. Participants who are unable to follow our rules may be asked not to continue their session or not to return in the future and refunds will not be provided.
